Telling Nature's Stories

Position: Wildscreen 2024 Official Selection Pre-selector

Location: Remote

Salary: Voluntary, with either a free virtual festival pass, free day pass, or £135 off a full hybrid pass, offered in lieu of payment

THE ROLE

Wildscreen Festival is back, October 14-18 2024, and Wildscreen's Official Selection competition is already open for submissions, recognising original short films, features and VR/AR productions focusing on themes relating to our natural world.

Already we have received a fantastic array of film submissions, and are looking to assemble a group of international pre-selectors to help support with viewing content and helping to pass or recommend it to our programmer team. This is a voluntary position that would take between 8 -20+ hours of your time in early summer, May/June. (You can specify your preference for format and length on the application!)

As our competition acts as a global launchpad for original stories told by a diverse range of storytellers, we are working towards building an equally diverse team of pre-selectors. We particularly encourage applications from individuals who identify as BIPOC, a womxn, part of the LGBTQ community, or living with a disability.

ABOUT WILDSCREEN

Since 1982, Wildscreen have honoured the most remarkable achievement in the craft of natural world filmmaking through the Wildscreen Panda Awards. In 2020, they launched their Official Selection to find bold, authentic and varied stories that speak to different audiences.

Applications to join the pre-selector team are open until midday GMT 28 February. Apply Here!
